Nixon Keynotes City of Hope Convention

The 1961 national biennial convention of the City of Hope will take place July 3-5 in the Ambassador Hotel, it was announced by Louis Tabak, president.

More than 1,000 delegates and guests, representing 405 auxiliaries in 28 States and 134 cities throughout the United States, are scheduled to attend the conclave to determine the course of the National Medical Center for the next two years.

Former vice president Richard M. Nixon will address the opening night session.

Municipalities Run Into Trouble Over Better Service Demands

By REYNOLDS KNIGHT

Hard-pressed municipalities throughout the nation, big cities and small towns alike, are finding it increasingly difficult to meet demands for broader and better services with limited funds.

Despite increased taxes, revised property assessments, government aid and other sources of revenue, deficits still exist, and the picture is expected to grow worse within the next 10 years, according to the Municipal Finance Officers Association.

Efforts to increase property taxes, which account for about 70 per cent of municipal revenues, are meeting stiffer opposition, according to city officials. Some cities are getting around this by making property reassessments that are more in tune with current values.

A clue to the seriousness of the situation appears in U. S. Census Bureau statistics showing that cities expanded their outstanding long-term debt from less than $16 billion on June 30, 1955, to more than $22 billion in 1959—and the total has risen since then.

venience. The steel industry has become oxygen's biggest customer.

Used in existing open hearth and electric furnaces, or in new basic oxygen process facilities, the gas helps to provide more steel at lower prices. Oxygen makers are building facilities either adjacent to or actually on steel mill property as a way of providing a constant flow of gaseous oxygen with minimum transportation expense.

As improvements in oxygen-steel processes continue to contribute to increased production, these on-site air-separation plants are being refined. Latest development is a new unit to be constructed at Sharon Steel Corporation, Farrell, Pa. by the National Cylinder Gas Division of Chemetron Corporation. The NCG plant will be the first in this country to use a new, simplified process for producing large quantities of liquid as well as gaseous oxygen. The liquid can be stored more conveniently and can be transported and sold to other users in the area.

SPACE CONQUEST—Some 20 years ago we heard much talk to the effect that American frontiers had closed and that this was the reason for the stagnation of the thirties. Now, with a suddenness that can hardly be grasped, new frontiers have opened in a way that no frontier ever opened before: they are frontiers of space and the universe.

This was the theme of Mundy I. Peale, president, Republic Aviation Corporation, at recent ceremonies dedicating a new $14-million Research and Development Center in New York. The Center includes seven research laboratories and three associated wind tunnels, which gives the company the unique capability of testing spacecraft models at speeds ranging from 400 mph to over 19,500 mph, or it orbital velocity.

Republic Aviation, a major fighter aircraft producer, has entered 29 new technological areas since 1958.

Mr. Peale pointed out that there is "no mystery" as to what a corporation can mean to the country. "Its greatest contribution," he said, "can be utilization of capital to make possible the doing of worthwhile work to provide employment, to increase our standard of living, and to give something to the 'enlargement' of human values."

OXYGEN FOR STEEL—Companies that produce oxygen—a gas that is causing a significant transformation in steel production—are directing major efforts toward providing large volumes of high-purity oxygen to the mills at low cost and maximum convenience.

THINGS TO COME—A new way of getting lint off clothes is a pad coated with high-tack adhesive, covered with a protective liner. It fits over the hand and when patted gently on a suit, dress or other article lifts off lint, dust, threads and hair. Golfers will welcome a new combination golf bag and portable seat. The seat can hold 14 clubs which are slid into pockets under the seat, while the saddle bag holds golf balls, tees, score cards and other golfing accessories.

CHICKEN IN EVERY POT—

Families who still rely on that old Sunday dinner standby should be pleased over news that a plentiful supply of poultry has driven prices to record lows. Live broilers this month sold for 12½ cents a pound in the major producing areas of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, lowest ever recorded in the area. Dressed chickens retail for as low as 19 cents a pound in some Midwestern cities. This is neither good news for the chicken raisers nor the other meat producers, since poultry price reductions have depressed prices of other kinds of meat, including choice steers which now bring the lowest price in four years on the Chicago market.

BITS O' BUSINESS—Latest thing in the vacation field is a club called "Vacationer's Home Exchange" which acts as a clearing house for swapping homes temporarily to enable millions in the low income groups to enjoy low-cost vacations. There's an apparent resurgence in the magazine field; latest include "Campus Life," "Pool Life," "Tape," devoted to devotees of tape recordings, "Show Business Illustrated," and "Show," both entertainment magazines, and "Bfavo," which is being placed on the market for free distribution to concert-goers.
